Jointly Presented By:

Mission:

Uniting Venture Capitalists, Angel Investors, Private Equity Firms, Corporate Investors and Investment Bankers from around the nation with MidAmerica's most promising healthcare companies to explore investment opportunities.

Target Audience:

- CEOs and CFOs of biotechnology, medical device, and industrial biotech companies
- Angel investors and investment banks
- Corporate and venture capitalists
- Business development executives
- Start-ups and tech transfer officers

Forum Features:

- Session discussions on leading edge industry topics
- Presentations from 40+ privately held healthcare companies focusing in biotechnology, medical devices, and industrial biotech.
- Variety of formal and informal networking opportunities

Forum Background:

MidAmerica Healthcare Investors Network (MHIN) and International Business Forum (IBF) have joined forces to unite venture capitalists from around the nation to facilitate investment opportunities in promising healthcare companies from the MidAmerica region. This year's forum will platform leading edge industry topics during several panel sessions and will also highlight 40+ privately held healthcare companies from across MidAmerica who are looking for their next round of capital. The 2009 forum is hosted by The Wisconsin Technology Council in Madison, WI.
